I'm a naturally curious hard worker who loves figuring out what makes programs tick. I'm a developer who understands that we never stop learning.

I want to put my unique skill set to work for the team that values growth and creativity as highly as I do.

RELEVANT EXPERIENCE

I have been the Web Development Fellow for the Democratic Attorneys General Association (DAGA) since December 2017. I primarily work with the Data Science and Communications departments to develop websites and web applications for DAGA's members, and for DAGA-affiliated campaigns.

Prior to working with DAGA, I successfully completed a 12-week immersive session at General Assembly - one of the premier developer bootcamps in the DC area, where students are required to learn something new each day. I gained an incredible amount of experience with many languages and frameworks, and I rekindled my passion for technology and discovery. Every day was a challenge, every day was exciting, and no two days were the same. Additionally, I learned best development practices, how to work collaboratively, and how to succeed in a real-world rapidly-evolving production environment.

OTHER SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE

I'm a self-starter, I work best in a results-driven environment, and I am quite comfortable being judged on the strength of my work. Prior to web development, I spent over a decade in a field that also demands quick decision making, excellent multi-tasking, and a certain amount of self-confidence. As a result, I am able to successfully complete many tasks at once in a fast-paced environment, I have excellent verbal communication skills, and I skilled at interacting with many different personalities. I keep calm under pressure, and I am very detail-oriented.
